THE

MAILING LIST

Dear Colleague:

Few professional associations offer so many of the best and brightest. If you want to reach the sharpest minds in today's government information systems industry, URISA's mailing list can take your products and services directly to their doors.

Few professional associations offer such diversity. URISA's 3,000 members—in conjunction with our nearly 22,000 other professional contacts—constitute a cross-section of government, private industry and academic decision makers.

Few professional associations offer so many consumers and managers of information. URISA members and contacts consistently demonstrate their eagerness to learn and communicate their knowledge to others. By participating in URISA sponsored conferences and by purchasing URISA publications, these professionals maintain their positions as leaders within the industry and the public sector. When you use the URISA mailing list you can trust that your offers of products and services will be reaching an open, active, and thinking audience.
