URISA Government Agency Membership

— now including a URISA GMI GIS Capability Maturity Model Assessment Service Subscription

URISA is pleased to introduce a valuable new benefit as a feature of government agency membership. Agencies will now have access to the GMI’s GIS Capability Maturity Assessment Service as part of the agency membership package (at a considerable discount). The assessment tool indicates your organization’s GIS management maturity on a wide range of geospatial capabilities.

The service was created to provide agencies with a means to evaluate and visualize the operational maturity of their GIS programs. Results of the self-assessment can be used to evaluate and prioritize next steps in improving GIS operations and effectiveness. Clear presentation of a GIS program’s maturity levels and gaps can lead to support and resources for further growth and new uses of GIS. The CMM assessment subscription service enables GIS managers to monitor progress annually and to compare their results to their peer group.

- Annual self-administered assessment of key metrics associated with organizational GIS management maturity levels
- Results report and graphic charting
- Visualize your organization’s GIS management strengths/weaknesses
- Comparison across other organizations

Each agency membership includes a specified number of individual memberships (normally $175), along with other valuable benefits. Each individual member receives a subscription to the The GIS Professional, and URISA Digest, discounts on registration for URISA professional education and events, ample opportunities for contributions, and much more.
